The workshop will be structured around how best to meet the needs of the participants through activities, practising a fluency technique, managing speech related anxiety, preparing for specific occasions and other speech coping techniques.

The workshop will also include group activities where participants can benefit from sharing their experiences.

People are invited to attend a one-day McGuire workshop. McGuire graduates are encouraged to attend to refresh and strengthen their technique and non-McGuiries are invited to participate to learn skills that might help them in their own recovery. Speech Pathologists are most welcome to attend to learn more about the strategies used in this very successful world-wide programme for people who stutter.

The workshop will teach the McGuire breathing and speaking technique and will start to unravel the psychological barriers to moving forward with improved communication skills.

Attendees who aren't graduates of the programme will be required to sign a letter of acknowledgement that the vast improvement in their speech gained by attending the day workshop may only be temporary unless they continue with the discipline and expansion of their comfort zones that their particular treatment option, whatever it may be, requires to be successful.
